A locally-owned medical practice providing nurse-managed care in Savannah, GA

Recognizing gaps in traditional approaches to healthcare, My Nurse Now was founded on a mission to deliver modern, innovative care for aging patients.

Challenges

Managing two vaccine supply channels

-  In January 2021, a pharmacy owner partnered with My Nurse Now to administer vaccines to the community's high percentage of retired residents. With space to set up a clinic but a lack of staffing and logistical resources, My Nurse Now provided clinical support and built out scheduling infrastructure with NextPatient. Capacity quickly grew from vaccinating 50-60 people per day to up to 300 per day.
-  As COVID-19 restrictions began to lift in Georgia, My Nurse Now became accredited to facilitate their own vaccination events. My Nurse Now began partnering with the school district, county court system, chamber of commerce, and local businesses, facilitating multiple events in the same day across multiple locations. Following approval of the Pfizer vaccine for teenagers aged 16+, My Nurse Now continues to expand vaccination events with area high schools.

Solutions

A flexible, bidirectional integration. NextPatient's two-way, real-time integration with athenahealth delivers a high level of automation that supports a rapidly scalable vaccination response.

-  With a fully integrated technology solution, My Nurse Now is able to schedule appointments, collect paperwork, and streamline reimbursement.
-  Online patient self-scheduling and automated reminders eliminate the need for staffing resources to manage phone calls.
-  Using NextPatient, My Nurse Now supplies partner organizations with their own web link to schedule vaccination events.
